NOVEMBER 2017

Tony Toscano

I hope we all take the time to remember what Thanksgiving is for. Not only to give thanks to the ones who we spend time with during the year but also those who are no longer with us. Whether you know it or not we are all part of our past. Part of our blood family and blood or just little things you pick up from your friends. So I give thanks to all of you who make up my daily routine and fill my agenda with thoughts and laughter.

Well, Hurricane season is over for some. I mean some because there are still homeowners that are working on getting their homes back in to shape after the damage that occurred nearly two months ago. Residents have been working and communicating with the Board and management on work being done and we have been trying to aid in the construction with the new codes for these repairs. Thank you for your prompt attention to these matters.

The Board is looking into a generator to assure a bit more safety and provide a bit more reassurance that some shelter and hot meals are available in case this happens again, just in case we are not so lucky, and the power goes out at the clubhouse. As a reminder the clubhouse is not an approved hurricane shelter but maybe better than a night alone in the storm.

Tree trimmer will be completing work in the park this first week of November. Some additional work needed to be done to deal with some of the tree damage from the storm. With the additional cuts that were added a few years ago and this storm damage, this item is the single most per cent increase of our major expenses to our budget since the fees were last raised.

Other work to be scheduled shortly will be the tree stumps ground down once all the tree work is completed.

Our budget meeting is Wednesday November 15th –please make plans to attend. If you have any questions, please feel free to come to the office and ask. Some questions can easily be explained to save time at the meeting but also feel free to ask any questions you may have at the meeting as well for all the be clear on.

Please save me the time from writing out thirty or so letters of compliance. There are a bunch of homes that need pressure washing as well as driveways that need washing and/or painting. Some homes need the fascia trim repainted or just general touchup. Some homes need to be repainted. Some homes have materials, block, and other piled up around the back of the homes. Some homes have back patios that need pressure washing. Thank you for taking care of these items before I have to remind you of your obligation.

Homes for Sale

Currently only two homes are for sale. What a difference from when there were 20 homes listed. Our home values have continued to get better. Thank you to those who have helped.

Unit 140 – 78.5K

Unit 249-76.5K

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!

Landscape Notes

Benefits of Applying Fertilizer in the Fall

Oct 14, 2008

FERTILIZER TIMING:

The late-season fertilization strategy is based on applying nitrogen (N) fertilizer in the late fall (mid November to early December period depending on temperature). Ideally, N should be applied just around the time that top growth has significantly stopped or ceased. N applied at this time should extend the greening of the turf longer into the late fall without additional top growth, so timing is critical. Not too early but not too late.

BENEFITS:

The extended greening results in the turf remaining photosynthetically active for as much as 4-6 weeks longer. The carbohydrate from this still active photosynthesis is translocated downward to support root growth and stolon/rhizome growth or the excess stored as a food reserve for next spring/summer. Spring green-up is usually enhanced resulting in earlier spring greening and additional photosynthesis and food production without the surge growth from a traditional early spring fertilization. REMEMBER - This usually eliminates the need for N fertilization early in the spring where appropriate late fall fertilization has occurred

Act Now for a Healthy Lawn This Fall

Quick and Easy Tips Help Sustain Your Lawn Now and Next Spring

By investing a small amount of time and energy now, you can improve your lawn's good looks for fall and prime it for a green and glorious spring. Both warm and cool season grasses common in the U.S. can suffer substantial damage over the winter without proper care in the fall.

The experts at TruGreen, the largest professional lawn care services provider in the United States, recommend an easy five-step strategy to ensure your lawn flourishes this fall and enters the winter season healthy and well-maintained.

Fertilize in the fall. Autumn is an ideal time to fertilize your lawn. For warm season grasses, properly timed applications of fertilizer high in potassium encourage healthy root growth and can protect against low temperature stress and winterkill. Cool season grasses benefit from a nitrogen-based fertilizer applied in the fall to foster new shoot development and recovery from summer stress. A green lawn this fall promotes accumulation of food reserves important to deeper root growth and quicker spring green-up next season.

Aerate the area. Aeration, creating tiny holes in the lawn, lets water soak in, stimulating root growth and improving fertilizer absorption. "When you aerate your lawn, it becomes a sponge soaking up water and preventing runoff," said Kirk Hurto, vice president of Technical Services at TruGreen. "It improves irrigation and protects your lawn from thatch build-up - the layer of dead plant material that collects between the grass blades and the soil." Applying Potassium or "Potash" can enhance and strengthen the root system as well.

It's OK to go "over"-board. Over seeding, the spreading of grass seed over existing grass to increase density or promote growth on bare spots, can vastly improve a lawn's appearance after a rough summer. Early fall is the prime time to over seed lawns with cool season grasses. Make sure the bare areas are lightly raked to remove debris and ensure seed-to-soil contact. Complete this as early in the fall as possible because the sun-warmed soil promotes rapid seed growth and lawn fill-in.

If it's still growing, keep mowing. Don't think fall means the end of mowing. To guarantee you have a healthy lawn in the spring, continue to mow regularly while the turf is actively growing.

Don't leave the leaves. Falling leaves are a colorful reminder that fall is in the air, but leaving layers lying around can suffocate your lawn. It's best to either remove the fallen leaves or mulch them with a mulching mower. You can compost the leaves you collect and use them to nourish plants and shrubs, which also reduces the impact on your local landfill.

"Cutting back on your lawn care during the fall results in thinning grass and bare spots that are unsightly now and can lead to weed problems and soil erosion from water runoff come spring," said Hurto, "Our technicians report that proper care of the lawn this fall enhances the start-up of lawns next spring. Improved fall root development through proper fertilization improves spring green-up and lawn density, which is important for reducing weed encroachment."

Ongoing effort to improve for 2018

In an ongoing effort to keep our community remaining close knit and sociable, we would like to continue to add to the phone book listings our homeowners' original home State or Province.

The home state or Province(abbreviations) will be listed in the back of the Phone books next to the unit owner's names and unit numbers- all 265 units are listed in this section.

You do not have to participate if you choose. Many have already participated. We would like further participation.

Our expectation is to have all 265 homeowners list their home State or Province- if at the very least it may stir some good home team rivalries and great conversations for all residents. Who knows, you may even meet a northern neighbor as many already have.

I happen to be from NY—Brooklyn for that matter. Sheepshead Bay, Coney Island area— NY Yankees, NY Rangers, NY Giants, so bring it!

Thank you for making your Stonehedge community a better and friendlier place to live
